

CRSC Privacy Policy:

We are committed to protecting your personal information and complying with GDPR and other global data protection standards. We collect only the minimum information needed to operate the Clinical Research Site Collective and to provide you with secure, effective membership services.

Only three pieces of information will be visible to other members: your name, company or organization, and your city and state/province. This limited directory is available exclusively to authenticated members and is not accessible to the public or indexed by search engines. No other personal information is shared unless you choose to provide it voluntarily.

We do not sell, rent, trade, or otherwise transfer your personal data to third parties, nor do we use your information for advertising or external marketing. Your data is used solely to create and manage your membership, support platform features, facilitate professional networking, and improve the functionality and security of the Collective. Sponsors, CROs, and service providers will be able to view this limited member information, but cannot download or export data.

You remain in full control of your personal data. You may access, correct, update, or delete your information at any time, withdraw consent where applicable, or request a copy of your data. Upon membership termination, your account is deactivated and personal data is deleted or anonymized unless retention is required for legal or regulatory reasons.

We use industry-standard security measures to protect your information and restrict access to authorized personnel responsible for operating the Collective. Our goal is to ensure that your experience is safe, respectful, and fully aligned with the principles of data minimization, transparency, and user control.
